

BECOME A MASTER, SPEAKER'S ADVICE

Dr. J. J. Rea Of Richmond Urges
Graduates To Do Something
Better Than Anyone Else

SPEAKS AT COMMENCEMENT

Person Who Makes The World Go
Around Is The Satisfied Individual, He Asserts

Urging the fifty four graduates of the Rushville high school to do something better than anyone else, and to become a master of that thing, Dr. Joseph J. Rea, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Richmond, delivered the commencement address here Friday night, speaking on the subject, "How To Use Our Gifts."

The graduating class sat on the stage and made a fine appearance with the girls wearing plain white middie and skirts, with black ties. The speaker stood at one side of the stage, and in the beginning told his audience that he was here to speak to the class, and not the audience, and most of his address was directed at the seniors.

In the very first place he told of the differences of people. Three men could be placed before a bountiful meal, one would eat heartily and get up satisfied; the second would get up, saying that nothing satisfied him; the third would eat of one thing, and regret that there wasn't more of that one kind of food.

These three men, he stated, comprised the different types today. The first is the person who is satisfied and contented, and he is the best citizen; the second is the dissatisfied person who never can be made to like things, and the third is the type who is continually complaining, and never gets any place.

The person who makes the world go around is the satisfied individual who finds day in and day out, Dr. Rea pointed out. In this connection he told the graduates that opportunity "is just as large as yourself, and if an individual can accept the opportunity, then he will make a success."

Dr. Rea told the class to be satisfied with what they now possess, and for them to utilize the powers that they now have. Some people, he said, were continually longing for the powers of the other person.

"Here is the remedy for that," Dr. Rea stated. "Weigh yourself and look at yourself. All you scholars know that only one straight line can be drawn between two points; but thousands and thousands, in fact an indefinite number of crooked lines can be drawn between two same points."

"The thing to do is to decide what you are and what you ought to be and take a straight line along that way—that is mastery. It's yours to be a master, and do something better than anyone else."

In this connection Dr. Rea used several examples to prove that it takes hard work to become a master, no matter what the task might be, and that when the thing has been accomplished the people admire and respect the one who has mastered his work.

He recalled an instance when a neighbor of his, a railroad engineer came home from his run and at night would pick up a horn and run the scale, disturbing the general quietness of the vicinity. Finally he got so he could produce harmony, and this later developed into higher talent, until the neighborhood took a delight in listening to old Calhoun foot his horn, because he had become a master of that one thing.

Another instance was recalled of a ship sailing on a stormy sea, and passengers became alarmed for their safety, and when the captain of the vessel was approached, he told the passengers that the boat was one of the sturdiest ever launched and that there was a master pilot at the helm, and the people had confidence in the pilot. Dr. Rea hoped that there might be a master at the helm of the life of each graduate.

He told the graduates that their one ambition in later years should be to take first place, and not be satisfied with second or third ranking in life. He told them to have a good time, rub out the draggery

A STORY WITHOUT WORDS

Cancelled Tickets Used on V.G. & R. When it was First Built Are Found

Prove of Interest to Phil Wilk, County Auditor, As He Was Surveyor on Railroad, Which is Now The Big Four, Prior to Its Opening in 1881

Some old cancelled railroad tickets used in 1880 and 1881, when the V. G. & R. railroad (now the Big Four) was opened for traffic, were found in the law office of Frank J. Hall, which has been found to shelter many interesting relics, and turned over to Phil Wilk, county auditor, who was employed as a surveyor on the road when it was being built.

Mr. Wilk gave the tickets to Polk Thompson of Greensburg, because Mr. Thompson's father was also a surveyor on the road and they received many old memories for him.

Mr. Hall was an attorney for the railroad during its construction and took an active part in its early development.

One of these tickets was evidently used when free rides were given over the road to Greensburg. The ticket reads, "To Greensburg and return. Good only for Saturday, Oct. 9 1880."

A schedule of passenger rates effective June 20, 1881, is of interest. The rates from Greensburg to North Vernon was $1.05 as compared with 94 cents at present. To Westport the rate was 60 cents; now 48 cents; To Letts 45 cents, now 34 cents. Also there was a reduction of ten cents from these rates if ticket was purchased before entering cars.

WILL BE EFFECTIVE JUNE 1

Reduction in Automobile Insurance Rates Provided in New Schedules

Indianapolis, Ind., May 26.—Reduction in rates for automobile insurance for practically all parts of the state is provided for in new schedules approved by Thomas S. McMurray, state insurance commissioner, it was announced today. The rates in Indianapolis, Terre Haute, South Bend and East Chicago will be changed only slightly under the new schedule because experience has proven that the risk of theft and accident in these cities is high.

Evansville, Frankfort, Marion and Ft. Wayne will profit most by the reduction brought about by the new schedule, which becomes effective June 1.

The road was opened to Greensburg April 15, 1880, and to Rushville Sept. 10, 1880. Col. Horace Scott of Louisville, Ky., and the contract for building the road which was during the latter part of 1879 and in 1880.

Mr. Hall was an attorney for the road and took great interest in its construction and early history.

It is recalled that people had great visions of completing a north and south road that would break the monopoly of the Big Four but found later that it was only a part of the system. But it has been a great convenience and help to the county and was well worth all it cost the taxpayers.

SETTLEMENT IS MADE BY COUNTY

County Auditor Begins Distribution of $520,069.28 Among Units Entitled to Share of It

SETTLEMENT SHEET APPROVED

Rush County Is Second in State to Complete it—How Money is to be Distributed

The June settlement of the county with the state and townships and school corporations has been completed, and the county auditor, Phil Wilk, was busy today writing out the checks for the sums due the various units which are entitled to a share of the taxes which were collected in the county on the spring installment for 1923.

County Auditor Wilk obtained approval of the settlement sheet when he took it to the state auditor Friday. Rush county has been the first in the state for the past few years, since Mr. Wilk has been auditor, until this year, when Brown county came in, one day ahead of Rush. Brown has a very short settlement sheet to figure out, however.

The total amount distributed was $520,069.28, of which sum $516,487.27 was current taxes and $3,582.01 was delinquent taxes collected since the last semi-annual settlement last December. The amount actually to be distributed is $519,277.67, some deductions being necessary, such as $240.00 paid out for special judges, $214.92 paid the treasurer for collection of delinquent taxes, and $342.69 in erroneous taxes refunded by the board.

The state receives $79,567.12, divided as follows: state tax $5,929.47; benevolent institution fund, $22,012.12; state school tax, $19,999.85; state educational fund tax, $13,782.77; vocational education fund, $1,379.91; state highway commission, $8,275.73; soldiers memorial fund, $1,653.91; agricultural experiment station, $1,102.64; state teachers pension fund, $1,372.24; common school fund interest, $3,744.99; permanent endowment fund interest, $199.49; dockage fees, $611.23.

The sum of $67,567.12 is the amount that will actually be sent to the state because of advances of $2,000 for the state tax fund and $10,000 for the benevolent institution fund.

The money distributed in Rush county will go to the various funds as follows: County tax, $45,496.77, which is used in paying the running expenses of the county; gravel, road, repair fund, $33,072.53; township tax, $7,463.76, which is distributed among the townships to pay their costs of government; tuition tax, $71,942.54, which is used for the schools; special school tax, $74,008, which is also used for the schools; road tax, $54,635.11, which is used for road maintenance.

Township poor tax, $3,520.93;

KEEP A SHARP EYE ON RAILROAD MEET

Two Political Parties Sent Scouts To Conference To Report On Who Went And Who Stayed Away

FEAR THIRD PARTY MOVEMENT

If Hearst-Lafollette Coalition Is Formed, Movement Will Lose Host Of Progressive Support

By LAWRENCE MARTIN (U. P. Staff Correspondent) (Copyright 1923 by United Press)

Washington, May 26.—Both the Republican and Democratic parties have "observers" keeping a sharp eye on the Lafollette railroad conference which opened in Chicago Friday.

Forewarned that the conference was likely to be genesis of a third party movement, the two old parties sent competent scouts to report:

1—Who went to the conference.
2—Who stayed away from it.

Early arrival of Mayor Hylan of New York, and the prospect of a Hearst-Lafollette coalition in 1924 in an insurgent movement directed at both the Republican and Democratic organizations, confirmed political observers here in the belief they have all along—that Lafollette conference is primarily a third party preliminary.

Lafollette's railroad program has never been a secret. The present conference, in so far as it relates to railroad valuations, will develop nothing which Lafollette has not already repeatedly advocated and discussed.

But politically it may prove the beginning of a vendetta through which Hearst will wreak his revenge upon the Democratic party and Lafollette will get his at the expense of the Republicans.

The moment such a coalition formed the Lafollette movement will lose the support of a host of progressives who in joining the conference gave notice that the moment it entered partisan politics, or threatened to become a third party, they would quit. It is significant that some of these are absent from the Chicago meeting.

Many progressives already have resented Lafollette's assumption of leadership. They charge that for personal ambition, he has split the progressive movement instead of uniting it. To many progressives Lafollette's leadership is as distasteful as would be that of Big Bill Haywood. Lafollette is an extremist.

COMMUNISTS ARE NOT OPPOSED BY FRENCH

Looting Bands March Through Industrial Strongholds of Ruhr Valley, Causing Clashes

STORES BEING PLUNDERED

Berlin, May 26.—Looting bands of communists marched through the industrial strongholds of the Ruhr valley today, opposed only by diminutive forces of German civil police. The French troops are keeping "hands off."

Five were wounded in a clash near Dortmund early this morning. The "reds" of that district have rejected proposed wage increases and additional employes in industrial plants near the city quit their jobs to join the communist forces.

The looters fought with firemen at Bochum, and five were wounded there also. Two newspaper plants were stormed and the presses damaged. An attempt was made to burn one of the offices. Stores were plundered.

The situation appears worse today than at any time since the first communist outbreak several weeks ago. The government is hard pressed and preventive measures consist of most solely of appeals to the French to permit increase in policing forces.

In Düsseldorf trolley lines have been stopped and the gas and electric light plants are not operating because of the strike. Peaceful demonstrations of workers were reported at Herne.

Considerable Activity in Secondary Road Building by State Commission

Indianapolis, Ind., May 26.—The weekly traffic bulletin of the state highway commission issued today by John D. Williams, director, shows considerable activity in secondary road building by maintenance division crews, several additional detours on account of this construction and another small bridge washed out.

Flood waters, however have subsided in most parts of the state so affected with the exception of a portion of Road 10 south of Clinton. Here the Wabash river overflowed lowlands and highway officials do not anticipate that the state road will be able to handle traffic again under ten days. In the mean time traffic at this point is taking the river road between Clinton and Terre Haute, crossing the Wabash river near Terre Haute.

Road conditions are shown in the bulletin as follows:

No. 1. (New Albany, Indianapolis, South Bend, Michigan line).—Under construction between Kokomo and Westfield. South bound traffic detour one mile west at a point 9-miles south of Kokomo, thence in a southerly direction 17-miles, thence southeast 3-miles back to state road at a point 3½ miles north of Westfield. Or, if preferred leave National road at Manhattan going north through Greencastle and return to road near Stilesville. West bound traffic detour north at 4-miles west of Stilesville to the Greencastle road, thence south back to state road at Mt. Meridian. Continue on National road to Pleasant Gardens, detour south about one mile, thence west four miles, thence north again to National road. Drive carefully around three bridge projects between French Lick and Paoli and heavy grading east of Versailles. Watch for fresh tar between Aurora and Ohio line.

No. 5. (Vincennes to Mitchell).—Bridge construction at three places between Washington and Logansport. Take dirt run-around carefully. If rainy weather used marked detours over county roads.

No. 6. (Madison, Indianapolis, Monticello).—Detour to east at Hicksville just northwest of Indianapolis, returning to road 4-miles north. Detour bad. Crawfordsville traffic advised to take Road 31 out of Indianapolis. Grading between Shelbyville and Greensburg.

No. 7. (Kentland to Huntington).—Small bridge washed out two miles east of Wabash. Temporary crossing now in.

100 WAYS To Make Money

By BILLY WINNER

If I Could Make Tents—

THINK of the kiddies who long for tents. Think of the awnings that are junked yearly and sold to the rag man. Here is a chance for some one who knows how to make tents to earn a lot of spare money by utilizing some of this wasted canvas in making tents for the neighborhood back yards and sand piles.

I would beat the rag man to my raw material by running a Want Ad in The Daily Republican, offering to buy old awnings, sails, and canvas. I would not stop there, however. I would run another want ad in The Daily Republican advertising my services as a tent maker. I know I'd make money. Daily Republican Want Ads never fail.

More Heat Per Dollar

Because Campbell's Creek coal holds fire so long, it is really cheaper than most other coal, and will give you a greater amount of heat for the money you spend.

There is lower priced and also higher priced coal than Campbell's Creek, but dollar for dollar, we doubt if there is any coal which will get you through the winter on less money.

THEATRES MOVIES

"The Cub Reporter"
A real treat is in store for the patrons of the Mystic theatre when they see the latest Richard Talmadge production, "The Cub Reporter", which will be shown today.

This production is a rapid-fire thrilling comedy drama, stunt picture full of suspense, comedy and action that goes to make up good entertainment.

The story relates the experience of Dick Harvey, a reporter for the Morning Times who is sent out to get the story about the Sacred Jewel of Buddha, which came into possession of an American under peculiar circumstances.

He becomes entangled in a Chinese Tong War, started to regain the jewel and has a thousand and one thrilling adventures, regaining the jewel and then finally winning a bride.

Jack Dillon, who directed such successes as Mary Pickford in "Suds," Bert Lytell in "The Right of Way," and Jack Pickford in "A Burglar by Proxy," directed "The Cub Reporter" and turned out a remarkable production.

Mary Miles Minter Star

All African romance does not necessarily occur under the tent of the sheik or out on the burning sands. Romance is also found in the south of that continent with its dense jungles, savage tribes and wild beasts.

The latest Paramount production, "Drums of Fate," starring Mary Miles Minter, gives you the opportunity of seeing a new romance. New not in character but rather in setting. This picture will be shown at the Princess Theatre today.

The jungles hold more romance and interest than any of the deserts. The everyday life of the natives of the jungles, their feasts and hunting expeditions, all are shown in this great production. The favorite sport of the natives, according to the production, seems to be attacking the safaris of white men coming into their territory in search of gold, and they are some fighters to be sure.

In the cast supporting Miss Minter are the well known character actors, George Fawcett, Robert Cain, Bertram Grassby, Lefty Flynn and Casson Ferguson.

COULD HARDLY DO ANY WORK

Since Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound This Woman Feels So Well

Keeseville, N. Y.—"I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound too highly for the good it has done me. I was so much troubled with female weakness I could hardly do any work. I saw your advertisement in the paper, and read it to my husband. He said, 'You had better try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound,' so I bought six bottles, and by taking it I am not troubled as I was. I am gaining strength and getting fleshy. My female troubles have vanished and I have never felt so well. The Liver Pills are the best I ever took. If you think my letter will encourage other sufferers you have my permission to use it as an advertisement."—Mrs. SARAH BLAISE, Box 177, Keeseville, N. Y.

Doing the housework for the average American family is some task, and many women lose their health in so doing. If you, as a housewife, are troubled with backache, irregularities, are easily tired out and irritable, or have other disagreeable ailments caused by some weakness, give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. Let it help you.

IN THE MORNING: Harken unto the voice of my cry, my King, and my God; for unto Thee will I pray. My voice shalt thou hear in the morning, O Lord; in the morning will I direct my prayer unto Thee, and will look up.—Psalm 5: 2, 3.

Population on Wheels

Figuratively speaking, the greater part of the population of Indiana is on wheels. Motor cars seem the accepted and popular method of travel of the present age. As a result, the demand becomes more and more insistent for adequate all-year highways.

In less than two years the business of overland transportation and trucking has sprung up. The justice of trucks using roads improved with taxes of the people is beside the point, but it is nevertheless the case that the increased use of the roads by heavy vehicles is one of the reasons why it is becoming more and more necessary to build permanent roads.

Interest in the state highway system, especially as to road construction, maintenance and condition of highways is now more paramount than at any other season of the year because the state is engrossed in a road building program of considerable magnitude, and thousands and thousands of people are spending many hours each day in their motor cars.

Due to its geographical location, Indiana is in the pathway of a great volume of transcontinental traffic. The National Road is the highway through Central States from the Atlantic to the Pacific and today sees hundreds of motorists traveling to their northern homes after wintering in the southlands.

Governor McCray, member of the state highway commission and the director, recognize the importance of Indiana's good roads to the motoring public; also that if this state is to progress as it should industrially and agriculturally, money spent for trunk lines will yield vast returns in prosperity and contentment. To this end the state is committed to a construction and maintenance program in the next three years that will advance the interests of every Hoosier in manifold ways.

Big business interests recognize the dire importance of state highways and their close connection with the general public. A few days ago one of the big oil companies, the Standard of Indiana, Inc., perfected arrangements with John D. Williams, state highway director, that bulletins on state roads be sent to their three main branches, Indianapolis, Evansville and South Bend. "Daily we have thousands of calls for information on state roads for the public is using the state system almost exclusively when traveling to extent through the commonwealth, said a representative of this company. We propose to take your weekly traffic bulletin and disseminate from the three main offices copies to each of our filling stations in the state, for it is a service that the public wishes and we desire to extend."

The Rev. Mr. Doll was one of 15 of the class of 1923. The ordination was by the Rt. Rev. Joseph Chart-rans, D. D. Indianapolis. The services extended from last Sunday evening to Tuesday morning, at which time Pontifical High Mass was celebrated. It is usually the custom for the First Holy Mass to be held in the home church of the new priest, which accounts for the services being here tomorrow.

St. Meinrad's Abbey belongs to that branch of the Benedictine Order which some sixty years ago, was transplanted from Europe to America.

St. Meinrad's Abbey, is named after a holy hermit, St. Meinrad, who flourished in the ninth century. Born in 797, this hermit, by many years of prayer and penance, hallowed the spot where now stands Switzerland's world-renowned place of pilgrimage, the Abbey of Maria Einsiedeln, or, our Lady of the Hermits. In 861 St. Meinrad met his tragic end at the hands of two robbers who thought that he might have in his possession rich gifts received from pilgrims.

It is from this famous Abbey of Einsiedeln that St. Meinrad has its origin. This first group of Benedictines, designated for the new foundation, arrived at New York early in 1853. On March 21, the feast of St. Benedict, 1854, the young community took possession of its home at St. Meinrad, Spencer County, Indiana, where land had been acquired. Frame buildings soon arose, a church was built, missions were begun, a college and a seminary were established. In 1866, after twelve years of growth, the community numbered twenty religious. In 1872 the cornerstone of the new abbey was laid and in 1874 the community abandoned the original frame structure for the stately edifice that had been constructed of sandstone taken from a quarry belonging to the abbey. Later on a large and spacious college, likewise of sandstone, was erected.

On September 2, 1887, a most disastrous fire consumed the whole interior of the abbey. Undaunted and undismayed the community at once began the work of reconstruction and on the second anniversary of the fire, the new buildings were ready for occupancy.

THE REPORTER'S
NOTEBOOK

Being Random Observations
Picked Up During the Week by the Inquisitive Reporter in His Rounds About Town.

Not so long ago, a Rushville attorney and a friend of his were searching through the old files of Frank J. Hall for stamps when they came to two very old bottles, containing presumably wine or some drink. The attorney was asked for permission to take the bottles along, but he was adamant, being a man who never had much faith in any man's ability to resist the temptation of strong drink.

The friend had to forego the anticipated pleasure of a few good drinks of a vintage of long ago, but he thought it was so good that he told a lot of friends about it.

A few days later the attorney went to Mr. Hall's office and the bottles containing the old "stuff" were gone. The attorney hasn't been convinced yet that his friend didn't get them.

When the circus came to town Thursday, the usual number of boys were on hands before sunrise to get most any kind of a job that would win for them the coveted pastebord that would let them in at the front entrance. This circus was short of men and boys were in great demand.

The coming of the circus recalled some of the tricks that the boys used years ago to get under the "white top". The most common one was to raid the attic at home and gather up all of father's discarded clothes and trade them to the circus workmen for tickets. One man recalled on circus day that he once got three tickets for enough old clothes to satisfy the wants of the whole crew. Circus followers never sought fit or style—what they wanted was something to keep them warm on chilly nights.

On circus day mother spent fifteen cents for a perfectly good balloon. Sonny took it home and was playing with it on the front porch when a gust of wind blew it from his hands and the balloon went to the ceiling. With the use of a chair, mother had little difficulty in recovering it, and she warned her little boy that he should be careful or it would fly away in the sky. She wanted to tie it to the porch railing, but typical of youth, he just knew nothing like that would happen.

Soon, however mother's prediction came true and the beautifully colored toy went sailing away to cloud-land, the haven of many childish disappointments and lost hopes. Sonny gave the matter some thought and then called his support in an hour of trouble.

"Mother," he implored, "have God send my balloon back to me."

"Fatty" To Try Comeback

Chicago, May 26—"Fatty" Arbuckle will begin his fight to "come back" in a Chicago cabaret on June 1. He will begin where he started years ago before his fame as a movie star was made—as a speaking comedian. "Fatty" was here today rehearsing his act and preparing for his initial appearance.

LOUIS CHEVROLET NOT TO FACE TAPE

Intrepid Frenchman Announces None of Four Cars He Has Been Building Will Be Ready

SADNESS AMONG ENTRANTS

At Last Minute He Finds by Tests That His Mounts Will Not do For 500-Mile Event

By CAPT. E. V. RICKENBACKER
(Written for United Press)

Indianapolis, May 26—After the din of the cheering of today's daring performances at the track where the 500-mile race will be held next Wednesday had passed, there was a note of sadness in the racing fraternity.

Louis Chevrolet announced that none of the four cars he has been building would be ready for the track. For the first time in years, the intrepid Frenchman will not have an active interest in the big event. Twice his cars have been victorious. Many times they have run high in money positions. But this year it will be different.

It is a sidelight of racing. People will forget that his cars were even entered when the winner of next Wednesday's event is dined and fêted. But in reality it is one of the pathos of the track. For months he has been grooming his mounts. Then almost at the last minute, tests prove that a new and novel engineering idea with which he has been experimenting was not a success. The changes to bring his cars up to standard would take too long. So rather than send inferior cars to the tape with the Chevrolet monogram attached, the Frenchman withdrew the cars.

"But I will be back next year with a stronger team," said the brave Chevrolet with a determination that must be reckoned with. He will.

Thousands of dollars and months of time all for naught. But those are the lessons, learned on the race course, that save the vast public who use passenger automobiles millions of dollars in expense and worry.

The winner will be cheered. Chevrolet will be forgotten for this race. But it is not unlikely that Chevrolet's experience might be even more valuable to engineering than those to be learned from the victor's.

Johnson got $25,000 for his purse and he was shoved back to the ranks of third-raters. He may come back, but if he does he will have to travel the route over which he should have been started—the easier ones first, then the next and then the next.

not a progressive, they say.
Political "old timers" here chortled gleefully today over the prospect of the La Follette-Hearst alliance. That, they said, would "settle the hash" of any third party movement. It would alienate Borah, they pointed out, and would also make it impossible for him to head another "third party". And Borah is more feared by the politicians than either La Follette or Hearst.

Tragedy of Greedy Managers

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, May 26—Two tragedies, in which Greed, as represented in a selfish manager, acted as the triumphant villain over unsophisticated youth, were enacted recently on the fight stage, and they put another blot on the history of a sport that is all blotted up almost to capacity.

Floyd Johnson, the gamest youngster that ever put on a glove, and Young Jack McAuliffe, just out of the ring crib and learning how to walk, were sacrificed by managers who wouldn't take the slow and roundabout way to big money.

The case of McAuliffe is particularly tragic. His manager sold his contract the night before he was to meet Luis Firpo, the most dangerous heavyweight in the ring.

It was not enough to shove McAuliffe in the ring against a man that he had not one chance in ten thousand to beat; it was not enough to ask him to take the risk of permanent physical disability for a purse of $7,500; it was not enough to ask him to ruin a promising career before he had hardly started. McAuliffe's manager did all these things and then:

The night before the fight that he had got him into, he sold his contract for $15,000, with the provision that he was to get his share of the $7,500 purse.

Nothing quite like that has come to the surface in the history of a sport which is choked to capacity with unusual things.

Johnson's case is not so tragic, although it is sad. Out less than a year, with a good record in a number of fights, Johnson might have reached the top if he had been placed in the hands of a competent trainer and if he had been allowed to go to the orthodox way of the set-ups, the trial horses and the second-raters.

Instead, Johnson was booked for an express elevator trip to the top. He was announced as a challenger of everyone of the logical contenders although he was removed by several degrees from the class of many of the second-raters.

He fought Fred Fulton and in that fight showed that he had a magnificent heart but no punch, and it was the surest thing in the world that he would have to possess a great punch to win from a man who was put down seven times by Jack Dempsey and who got up each time.

Too late Johnson turned over to Willie Lewis, once a great middleweight and now a good trainer and instructor. Lewis tried to teach him how to get his natural strength behind a punch, but the time was too short.

Johnson took a terrible beating from Willard and it took his corner
